London, September 6.

The Concluſion of the Memorial preſented by the Pruſſian Miniſter to the States General the 12th of Auguſt: The firſt part of which Memorial was incerted in Yeſterday's Courant.

IT being evident therefore that the Princeſs does not intend to come to any Accommodation; and that all that has been tranſacted on her ſide theſe 4 Years, was meant only to amuſe the Parties; His Majeſty the King of Pruſſia has Ground to hope, that your High Mightineſſes being thoroughly convinc'd of the Sincerity of his Intentions by the great and generous Offers made on his part to the Princeſs, will judge equitably that all thoſe Offers are at the ſame time become void by her Highneſs's poſitive Refuſal to accept them; and that his Majeſty has all the Reaſon imaginable to maintain by juſt and convenient Means his Prerentions to the Succeſſion of Orange; ſince they are founded on Right of Blood, his Majeſty being ſprung from the eldeſt Branch of the Deſcendants of the Houſe of Orange, as alſo on the Wills of the Princes Rene of Naſſau, and William the firſt his Majeſty's great Grandfather; as alſo principally and beyond all Contradiction on the Will of the late Prince Frederick Henry his Grandfather, and on the general Feoffement in Truſt contain'd in the ſame, by Right of Primogeniture, according to the Diſpoſitions of the ſaid Princes Rene and William the Firſt: And his Majeſty leaves it to her Highneſs to conſider how ſhe will one Day juſtify her Refuſing to agree to an Accommodation of the Differences touching the foreſaid Succeſſion, on Conditions ſo advantagious to the Prince her Son; and her perſiſting ſtill in that Refuſal in the laſt Conferences held the 10th Inſtant, referring herſelf to her Letter of the 31ſt of the preceeding Month.

In the mean Time, while this Affair ſtands as it does, the King of Pruſſia has Reaſon to entertain Hopes from the Equity of your High Mightineſſes, and moſt earneſtly intreats you, that in the Quality of impartial Executors of the ſaid Wills, you will be pleas'd to order the Council appointed to take Care of the Revenues of the Succeſſion of Orange, to allow an equal Acceſs to the Regiſters, Records, and Deeds of the ſaid Houſe, and to give Copies of the ſame, as well to the Deputies which his Majeſty ſhall appoint, as to thoſe of his Highneſs the Prince of Naſſau, who have hitherto been allow'd to peruſe thoſe Writings excluſively of all other Perſons, to the great Prejudice of his Majeſty's Rights; and beſides, that one Deputy on the Part of his Majeſty be admitted into the ſaid Council that have the Care and Adminiſtration of the Revenues of the Eſtate or Succeſſion of the ſaid Houſe of Orange, that he may ſee in what Manner the Effects of the Inheritance, and particularly thoſe of Prince Frederick Henry, which beyond all Contradiction belong to his Majeſty, are manag'd; the like Liberty of nominating a Deputy on his Part being reaſonable to be allow'd to the Prince of Naſſau. His Majeſty has the more Reaſon to inſiſt upon this, becauſe the ſaid Council for adminiſtring thoſe Revenues have render'd no Account of their Adminiſtration ſince the Death of the late King of Great Britain, and beſides have on ſeveral Occaſions ſhew'd too much Oppoſition againſt his Majeſty in things that are very juſt, (yet receiving Orders and Prohibitions from the Princeſs of Naſſau,) and particularly as to keeping in Repair the Houſes that are devolv'd to him from Prince Frederick Henry, and maintaining the Servants that look after them; notwithſtanding the ſaid Council receive all the Income of the Eſtates of that Prince and tho' it be a ſtanding Rule even among private Perſons, that thoſe who have the Adminiſtration of a profitable Eſtate, ought to provide what is neceſſary for the Conſervation of the ſame. This is actually done with Regard to the Houſes and Domeſticks of which the Princeſs of Naſſau is in Poſſeſſion, and alſo to thoſe ſhe is deſirous to appropriate to her ſelf tho' without any Foundation of Right: Which, on the Part of his Majeſty, his Miniſter whoſe Name is ſubſcribed has Order moſt humbly to beſeech your High Mightineſſes to remedy; referring with your Permiſſion to ſeveral Memorials which he has had the Honour to preſent on that Subject; the ſaid Grievance not having been remov'd by your High Mightineſſes Reſolution of the 29th of June laſt, the Reaſons whereof ſhall be repreſented in a diſtinct Memorial.

In Concluſion, his Majeſty promiſes himſelf from the Equity of your High Mightineſſes, that in this Affair of the Succeſſion of Orange, you will treat a good, ancient, Friend, Ally, and Neighbour of your Republick, at leaſt on the Foot of Equality with his Highneſs the Prince of Naſſau, as to what concerns the Eſtates ſituate within your own Dominions; leaving to forreign Potentates, within whoſe Dominions are Eſtates appertaining to the ſaid Inheritance, their own Juriſdiction free, without authorizing their Courts to pretend to an univerſal Judicature, which cannot be exercis'd even between the Provinces of this Republick in Relation to private Eſtates and Fiefs, much leſs can it in this Succeſſion, which contains beſides a ſoveraign Principality that acknowledges no Judge, divers Counties, Lordſhips, and Lands, which if a Reference to an Impartial Arbitration, ſo often offer'd on the part of his Majeſty, and which he

he is ſtill ready to yield, be not conſented to, muſt at laſt be adjudg'd each before its competent Judge.

Hague, Auguſt 12. 1706. Sign'd, W. B. de SCHMETTAU.
